

Kim Controls South Korea

So says a source in North Korea quoted in the Daily North Korean. (<http://www.dailynk.com/english/read.php?cataId=nk01500&num=7190>).

The North Korean authorities have aggressively used the Yeonpyeong Island attack to promote Kim Jong Eun's leadership. Regarding the South, the North's propaganda says they've seized the initiative in inter-Korean relations, saying, "We just speak, and they move."

According to the source, the cadre emphasized that, "You (members of the primary committee of the Party) don't need to worry about the future, since South Chosun moves whenever we say something. In practice, the General controls South Chosun."

He added, "On the way to becoming a strong and prosperous state, reunification definitely will come. Now we will certainly win as long as we have two people (Kim Jong Il and Kim Jong Eun). As you can see in the latest case, we defeated the enemy in a single stroke."

Analysis. This would be laughable if these folks weren't serious. Yet to some extent they are correct. The south reacts whenever Kim does something outrageous because they don't have a lot of options. As of now, it appears that the South will not give Kim whatever he wants. They would rather be at DEFCON 2 WATRCHCON 2 (at last report) than give in. I hope it works.
